Polymer Processing Society

The Polymer Processing Society, PPS, was founded in March 1985 in Akron, Ohio, USA. The goal of the PPS, as embodied in its constitution, is to foster scientific understanding and technical innovation in polymer processing. PPS provides a discussion forum for the worldwide community of engineers and scientists in this field via International annual conferences, regional and local meetings, the quarterly journal International Polymer Processing, the Progress in Polymer Processing book series and by sponsoring educational seminars.

Membership of the PPS is open to all those individuals who consider that the activities of the society will advance their professional development.
